How to remember last download location?

By default, this feature is enabled. If you need to turn it on manually, here's how:

1. Open Options menu
2. Navigate to General > New Task Defaults
3. Select the checkbox for "Save file to last used location"

Important note about download location: The last used location must be within your browser's default downloads folder. For example:

- Windows: Usually C:/Users/[YourUsername]/Downloads
- Mac: /Users/[YourUsername]/Downloads

Otherwise, the file will automatically go to your browser's default downloads location instead. This is a browser security feature that prevents extensions from downloading files to unauthorized locations without user confirmation.

Customizing Fallback Behavior

If you prefer to choose a new location when the last used location isn't available:

1. Open Options
2. Navigate to General > Miscellaneous
3. Under "When unable to save to the destination folder", select "Choose a new location using system dialog"

To change your browser's default download location:

General

1. Open <chrome://settings/downloads> in your browser
2. Set your preferred default downloads folder
